Rev., May, 1856, art. ii., (Life and Writings of the Late Mr. Justice Talfourd.)

The last-cited critic remarks,

"Altogether, this play may fairly take rank, as the pleasing and blameless production of a refined and cultivated mind, amongst the best dramas that have been composed for the closet; but when the author's friends proceeded to proclaim it as a decided work of genius in the highest sense of the term, they were clearly hurried into a palpable mistake."

President Felton (and there are few higher authorities) pronounced Ion (ubi supra) "the most successful reproduction of the antique spirit with which he was acquainted." See, also, WHITEHEAD, WILLIAM, No. 10. Ion was first brought out for the benefit of Mr. Macready, at Covent Garden Theatre, May 26, 1836, and subsequently acted with success at the Haymarket and other theatres. After a sleep, seldom disturbed, of many years, it was revived at Sadler's Wells, Dec. 11, 1861, "for the purpose of introducing Mrs. F. B. Conway as the representative of the temple-youth, the future monarch, and martyr to his country's welfare." (See Lon. Athen., 1861, ii. 813.)

York;) 10th ed., 1848, 18mo; 11th ed., 1852, fp. 8vo; Bost., 1865, 16mo. To this collection must be added—6. Critical and Miscellaneous Essays of T. Noon Talfourd, Phila., 1842, 12mo, pp. 354. Repub., with Additional Articles: see STEPHEN, RT. HON. SIR JAMES, K.C.B., LL.D., No. 1. The first edition was reviewed in N. Amer. Rev., Oct. 1843, 333–52, by one of the best critics of the age, Edwin P. Whipple: see, also, his Essays and Reviews, i. 81–102, 109. The N. Brit. Rev. (May, 1856, art. ii.) remarks that, whilst

"many of Talfourd's critical essays are remarkable for refinement of observation and frequent felicity of phrase, there is hardly one of them which is brought to a close without being partially impaired by that flux of words which was his bane."

Brit., 8th ed., xx., Dec. 1860, (by Robert Carruthers.)

"Of all the men whom I have known, after long intercourse with the business of the world, the Serjeant is the one who most preserves, to all outward appearance, the freshness and integrity of his youthful spirits."—THOMAS DE QUINCEY: Lit. Reminis., Bost. ed., ii. 257, (q. v.)

"He was much more than merely a distinguished leader, an eminent judge, or a great ornament of our literature. He had one ruling purpose of his life,—the doing good to his fellow-creatures in his generation. He was eminently courteous and kind, generous, simple-hearted, of great modesty, of the strictest honour, and of spotless integrity."—SIR J. T. COLERIDGE: Charge to the Grand Jury on the day after Talfourd's sudden decease.

"I heard the late Lord Chief-Justice Tindal praise him highly for judgment and skill in the management of business. He said he was altogether a successful advocate. No man got more verdicts, and no man more deserved to get them. Talfourd is a generous and kind-hearted man. To men of letters and artists in distress, such as Leigh Hunt, Haydon, &c., he was always very liberal. He did not forget his early friends, and at the large parties he has hitherto delighted to give, poets, players, authors of every kind were to be seen, together with barristers, and now and then judges."—HENRY CRABB ROBINSON: Diary, &c., ed. Tannahill, Robert, a popular writer of Scotch songs, the son of a weaver, and himself a weaver, was b. in Paisley, Scotland, June 3, 1774, and drowned himself, whilst deranged, in a pool in the vicinity of that town, May 17, 1810. The Soldier's Return; a Scottish Interlude, in Two Acts; with other Poems and Songs, chiefly in the Scottish Dialect, Paisley, 1807, 12mo. He was a contributor to The Harp of Renfrewshire, a Paisley periodical, and to George Thomson's Select Melodies.

"Some of his songs may be pronounced to be the very perfection of song-writing, so far as that consists in the simple and natural expression of feelings common to all."—Chambers's and Thomson's Biog. Dict. of Em. Scots., ed. 1855, iv. 363, (q. v. for a notice of Tannahill.)

Among the best-known of his songs (which will be found in many of the modern collections of Scottish poetry) are the Song of the Battle of Vittoria, Gloomy Winter's Now Awa, Loudon's Bonny Woods and Braes, The Braes of Balquhither, The Braes of Gleniffer, and Jessie the Flower o' Dumblane.

Tannehill, Wilkins, was born in Pittsburg, Pa., March 4, 1787. He removed to Lexington, Ky., at an early age, and shortly after to Nashville, Tenn., where he died, June 2, 1858, in the 72d year of his age. Mr. T. early became connected with the periodical press, having been co-editor of the Nashville Whig and other papers. He subsequently edited a new literary and independent paper, entitled The Orthopolitan. He then edited the Port-Folio, a Journal of Free-Masonry, from July, 1848, to June, 1849. The failure of his eyesight, which he lost entirely two or three years before his death, obliged him to discontinue the Journal and to cease from his labours.

Mr. T. was also the author of several works of considerable merit. The one that has had the greatest circulation, and has passed through several editions, is the Free-Mason's Manual, with a history of the progress of that ancient order from speculative to practical Masonry, —said to be a standard work among Masons. In 1827 he published, at Nashville, Sketches of the History of Literature from the Earliest Period to the Revival of Letters in the 15th Century, in an octavo volume of 344 pages. In 1846 he published, also at Nashville, Sketches of the History of Roman Literature from the Earliest Period to the Accession of Constantine the Great, 12mo of 167 pages. An enlarged edition of the Sketches of Literature was left in MS., and is now in the Library of the Historical Society of Tennessee in the Capitol at Nashville.

Mr. Tannehill was highly esteemed for his many virtues, and may be justly said to have added much to the literary reputation of his adopted city.

"Tanner's valuable 'Bibliotheca,' being written in Latin, is a sealed book to the multitude, and only useful for reference to the more instructed classes. Even for the latter it abounds in errors, mostly copied from the elder bibliographers; there is little attempt at minute criticism, either in dates or facts; and we can see, through many subsequent publications, how largely their compilers have been led astray by adopting them without examining the original authorities and comparing them with the texts they have so carefully copied."—*Edin. Tate, Nahum, a son of Dr. Faithful Teat or Teate, (q. v.,) was b. in Dublin, 1652; matriculated at Trinity College, Dublin, at the age of sixteen; removed to London, where he adopted literature as a profession; succeeded Shadwell as Poet-Laureate in 1690; d. in the precincts of the Mint, Southwark, (where he had for some time taken refuge from his creditors,) Aug. 12, 1715. 1. Poems, Lon., 1677, 8vo, pp. 148. 2. Memorials for the Learned, collected out of Eminent Authors in History, 1686, 8vo. 3. Characters of Virtue and Vice Described and Attempted in Verse; from a Treatise of Joseph Hall, Bishop of Exon, 1691, 4to. 4. Present for the Ladies, 2d ed., 1693, 8vo. 5. Poem on Promotion, 1694. 6. Elegy on Abp. Tillotson, 1695. 7. Elegy on Queen Mary, 1695. 8. Miscellanea Sacra; or, Poems on Divine and Moral Subjects, 1698, 8vo. 9. Elegies, 1699, 8vo. 10. Panacea; a Poem on Tea, 1700, 8vo. 11. An Essay for promoting Psalmody, 1710, 8vo. He published about ten dramatic pieces, (see Biog. Dramat.,) including an alteration of Shakspeare's Lear, 1681, 4to, which last kept possession of the stage for nearly a century; and a number of translations from the Greek, Latin, and French; and has long had ascribed to him—it appears, erroneously, (see Blakey's Lit. of Angling, 1856, 317)—The Innocent Epicure; or, The Art of Angling, a Poem, 1697, 12mo; 2d ed., 1713, 12mo; 3d ed., with the title of Angling, a Poem, 1741, 12mo. In 1713 he edited The Monitor, a short-lived penny paper. As a coadjutor of Dryden (p. 523, supra) and of Nicholas Brady (q. v., and STERNHOLD, THOMAS, No. 1) the psalmodist, he has already claimed our notice. His official Birthday Odes are not considered specimens of the loftiest style of poetical eloquence:

"Nahum Tate of all my predecessors must have ranked the lowest of the Laureates if he had not succeeded Shadwell."—SOUTHEY: Life of Cowper.

But Tate's latest biographers are disposed to question the justice of this verdict:

"Could Southey, with all his varied book-lore, have been ignorant of the verses of Eusden? and is he not in this estimate somewhat polite and merciful to his predecessor, Pye?"—Austin and Ralph's Lives of the Poets-Laureate, 1853, 222, (q. v.)

"There is an English word-joiner—author we will not call him—who has had the temerity to accomplish two things, either of which would have been enough to have conferred upon him a bad immortality. Nahum Tate has succeeded, to an extent which defies all competition, in degrading the Psalms of David and the Lear of Shakspere to the condition of being tolerated, and perhaps even admired, by the most dull, gross, and anti-poetical capacity. These were not easy tasks; but Nahum Tate has enjoyed more than a century of honour for his labours; and his new versions of the Psalms are still sung on (like the Shepherd in Arcadia piped) as if they would never be old, and his Lear was the Lear of the Playhouse at the time of the publication of our first edition, with one solitary exception of a modern heresy in favour of Shakspere."—CHARLES KNIGHT: Pictorial Shaksp. 2d ed., 1867, v. 465.

"In the original formation of this library (between the years 1806 and 1812) the sum of £16,533 was expended; and from that date to the present liberal accessions have been regularly made. Richard Porson was the first librarian, but his early death (25 Sept. 1808) made his term of office a very brief one. Nor, indeed, despite his brilliant scholarship and his other eminent endowments, was the office congenial to him. His successor, Mr. Maltby, has told us in the Porsoniana (appended to the Table-Talk of Samuel Rogers) that his attendance was so irregular as to draw from the directors on one occasion the pointed reproof, 'We only know you are our librarian by seeing your name attached to the receipts for your salary,' and from devoted friends the admission that the censure was merited. But he had an excellent assistant in Mr. William Upcott, who filled the office of sub-librarian for twenty-eight years. Mr. Maltby, too, continued to fill the office of principal librarian from the death of Porson to the midsummer of 1834. He was succeeded by Mr. Richard Thomson and Mr. E. W. Brayley as joint-librarians. To these gentlemen is mainly due that Catalogue of the Library of the London Institution, Systematically Classed, which is one of the best productions extant in its kind. The present number of volumes exceeds 62,000. The right of admission belongs of course exclusively to the proprietors and their nominees; but for a long time the library has been easily accessible for literary purposes."—EDWARD EDWARDS: Memoirs of Libraries, 1859, ii. 96.

"There is an excellent printed catalogue of this library, chiefly compiled by Mr. Thomson, in 4 vols. 8vo, printed between the years 1835 and 1852. . . . This catalogue comprehends, first, a synoptical table of the classes; secondly, a plan of the arrangement, in classes, of the books themselves; thirdly, a general classed catalogue of all the books; fourthly, an index of authors' names and works; and, fifthly, an index of anonymous works, and of many different subjects of which some account is to be found in the library."—Ibid.; *Encyc. "Supplies full and satisfactory information."—Lon. Lit. Gaz., 1852, 696.

2. North of England Directory, Newc.-on-Tyne, 1851, 12mo. 3. Notes on Joint-Stock Companies, 1865, 8vo.

Ward, Robert Plumer, (Plumer was added after his marriage, in 1828, to Mrs. Plumer Lewin,) the son of John Ward, a Spanish merchant, resident at Gibraltar, by his wife, Rebecca Raphael, a Spanish lady, was b. in London, 1765; passed his early boyhood at Gibraltar; returned to England when about eight years of age, and was educated at Christ Church, Oxford; called to the Bar by the Hon. Society of the Inner Temple, 1790; M.P. for Cockermouth, on the nomination of William Pitt, 1802–5; Under-Secretary of State in the Foreign Department, 1805–6; M.P. for Haselmere, 1807–20, and a Lord of the Admiralty, 1807–11; Clerk of the Ordnance, 1811–23; Auditor of the Civil List, 1823–31; granted a pension of £1000, 1828; d. at the residence of his father-in-law, Lieut.-Gen. Sir George Anson, Governor of Chelsea Hospital, Aug. 13, 1846, aged 81. 1. An Enquiry into the Foundation and History of the Law of Nations in Europe, from the Time of the Greeks and Romans to the Age of Grotius, Lon., 1795, 2 vols. 8vo; Dubl., 1795, 2 vols. 8vo.

"He who should take it up with the expectation of finding in it authoritative dicta upon any point in question would be disappointed; while the lover of history will be agreeably surprised to find himself wandering, and wandering with profit, through the most flowery paths of the history of the middle ages."—Hon. E. Phipps: Memoirs of Ward, i. 16.

This may remind the reader of Canning's remark that Ward's law-books were as pleasant as novels, and his novels as dull as law-books. Mr. Phipps observes that the Enquiry was favourably noticed by the Annual Register: it was also commended, as "replete with various and extended erudition," by Lon. Month. Rev., 1796, iii. 381, and (see Lon. Quar. Rev., lxxxvii. 245) is quoted as a text-book both by Martens and Mr. Justice Story.

"In a late publication, from the title of which some attention to dates might have been expected, we are told that 'Hobbes's book De Cive appeared but a little before the treatise of Grotius;' whereas, in point of fact, Hobbes's book did not appear till twenty-two years after it. A few copies were indeed printed at Paris, and privately circulated by Hobbes, as early as 1642; but the book was not published till 1647. (See 'An Inquiry into the Foundation and History of the Law of Nations in Europe,' &c., by Robert Ward, of the Inner Temple, Esq., London, 1795.) This inaccuracy, however, is trifling, when compared with those committed in the same work in stating the distinguishing doctrines of the two systems."—Dugald Stewart: Dissert. First, Encyc. Brit., 8th ed., i. 90, n.

2. A Treatise of the Relative Rights and Duties of Belligerent and Neutral Powers in Maritime Affairs; in which the Principles of the Armed Neutralities, and the Opinions of Hübner and Schlegel, are fully discussed, Lon., 1801, 8vo, pp. 190. See, also, Croke, Alexander, LL.D.: No. 3, infra.

"Exhausted all the law and learning applicable to the question."—1 Kent, Com., 128.

3. An Essay on Contraband: being a Continuation of the Treatise of the Relative Rights and Duties, &c., 1801, 8vo, pp. 83. This and No. 2 are noticed, not without censure, in Lon. Mon. Rev., 1801, ii. 307. 4. View of the Relative Situations of Mr. Pitt and Mr. Addington previous to and on the Night of Mr. Patten's Motion: by a Member of Parliament, 1804, 8vo; 2d ed., 1804, 8vo. This elicited a Letter to Robert Ward, Esq., M.P., &c., 1804, 8vo. See Lon. Mon. Rev., 1804, i. 328, ii. 219. 5. An Inquiry into the Manner in which the Different Wars of Europe have commenced during the Last Two Centuries, 8vo. Intended as a justification of Pitt's capture of the Spanish treasure-ships, October 5, 1804: see accounts of this sad affair in Lon. Gent. Mag., 1804, 1059, 1066, 1186.

6. Tremaine; or, The Man of Refinement, 1825, 3 vols. p. 8vo. Anon. 1500 copies were sold in six weeks. 3d ed., 1825, 3 vols. p. 8vo; 4th ed., 3 vols. p. 8vo; new ed., 1835, 2 vols. p. 8vo.

"No one can read 'Tremaine' without being persuaded that it affords most useful and practical lessons of conduct."—Lon. Quar. Rev.

Earl Spencer and others strove to discover the name of the author, (confidently declared to be the Rt. Hon. Richard Ryder;) but of this the publisher (Henry Colburn) was ignorant. It was reviewed in Westm. Rev., iv. 293; Blackw. Mag., xvii. 518; Lon. Mon. Rev., 1825, ii. 249, and U. S. Lit. Gaz., iii. 121. See, also, Lon. Quar. Rev., xxxvi. 269, lxxxvii. 270; No. 7, infra.

7. De Vere; or, The Man of Independence; by the Author of Tremaine, 1827, 4 vols. p. 8vo; 3d ed., 1827, 3 vols. p. 8vo; red. to 12s., 1841; N. York, 2 vols. 12mo.

"The excellence of De Vere, as of Tremaine, must be sought for in detached delineations,—in sketches that might have been presented in many other forms of composition at least as advantageously as in this. The author wants the power of moulding from discordant materials a harmonious whole. Many of his pages deserve to go down to posterity in the 'Elegant Extracts;' but his books appear to us to have no chance of ever being printed in the 'Novelist's Library.'"—Lon. Quar. Rev., xxxvi. 270. See, also, lxxxvii. 271.

"The extravagantly overrated—the heavy, imbecile, pointless, but still well-written, sensible, and, we may even add, not disagreeable—Tremaine and De Vere."—Blackw. Mag., xxvi. 562. See, also, xxiii. 792.

On the other hand, the Lon. Mon. Rev. (1827, ii. 8) thinks that there is "an order of minds . . . who will look upon this picture, as they did upon Tremaine, in the light of a most precious legacy from an artist of the very highest order;" and the Lon. Lit. Gazette (1827, 193, 209) ventures "to pronounce Tremaine and De Vere to be two most delightful works in the class to which they belong."

"The author of De Vere has shown his unquestionable title to rank among the true historical painters of manners and human nature."—New Month. Mag.

"His admirable De Vere."—Lon. Athen., 1838, 929.

See, also, Canning, George.

8. Illustrations of Human Life, Lon., 1837, (some 1838,) 3 vols. p. 8vo; 2d ed., 1843, 3 vols. p. 8vo. Commended by Lon. Messenger and Lon. Sun. See, also, Lon. Athen., 1837, 192. A part was repub. as Fielding, or Society, Phila., 1837, 12mo. 9. An Historical Essay on the Real Character and Amount of the Precedent of the Revolution of 1688: in which the Opinions of Mackintosh, Price, Hallam, Mr. Fox, Lord John Russell, Blackstone, Burke, and Locke, the Trial of Lord Russell, and the Merits of Sidney, are Critically Considered, Lon., 1838, 2 vols. 8vo.

"This is a conservative Pamphlet in the disguise of an Historical Essay. The author is apparently one of those unhappy persons whose peace of mind has been disturbed by Reform."—Edin. Rev., lxvii. 415.

Also condemned by Lon. Athen., 1838, 161. See, also, Lon. Quar. Rev., lxxxvii. 274.

10. Pictures of the World at Home and Abroad, 1839, 3 vols. p. 8vo; 2d ed., 1843, 3 vols. p. 8vo. This work consists of three tales, viz.: Sterling, Penruddock, or The High-Minded, and Rheindorf, or The Enthusiast, each in one volume. Noticed in Lon. Athen., 1838, 929, and Lon. Lit. Gaz., 1838, 803. 11. De Clifford; or, The Constant Man, 1841, 4 vols. p. 8vo; Phila., 1841, 3 vols. 12mo.

"De Clifford is a very agreeable and clever novel, and really wonderful as the work of a man of seventy-six."—Lon. Quar. Rev., lxxxvii. 275.

See, also, Patmore, Peter George, No. 4. A brief biographical sketch of Mr. Ward was pub. in Lon. Gent. Mag., 1846, ii. 650. See, also, Lon. Lit. Gaz., 1846, 740, (and Bost. Liv. Age, xi. 239;) Burke's Gentry of England. In 1850 appeared Memoirs of the Political and Literary Life of Robert Plumer Ward, Esq., &c.; with Selections from his Correspondence, Diaries, and Unpublished Literary Remains, by the Honourable Edmund Phipps, 2 vols. 8vo.

"We congratulate Mr. Phipps on the general discretion, delicacy, and neatness of literary execution which he has brought to his dutiful labour as editor and biographer."—Lon. Quar. Rev., lxxxvii. 276.

"There are a number of particulars brought forward, which throw great light upon some of the most memorable passages of our public affairs from the beginning of the present century."—Lon. Lit. Gaz., 1850, 401. See, also, 420.

Also commended by Blackw. Mag., lxviii. 216. The Lon. Gent. Mag. (1850, ii. 157) does not think so highly of Mr. Phipps's labours. The work was also reviewed in Lon. Athen., 1850, 653, and Lon. Examiner, 1850. Mr. Phipps remarks,

"The remaining portion of Mr. Ward's diary, though embracing many curious and interesting political details, and professedly intended for publication, appears to me to comprehend a period too recent to make its continuance expedient."—vol. ii. 101.

We trust that when the fire burns a little lower—
"incidens per ignes Suppositos cineri doloso"—
the remainder of the Diary will be given to the world, (1870.)

Ward, Samuel, a native of Haverhill, Suffolk, educated at Sidney College, where he was chosen Fellow, became Lecturer at Haverhill, 1607, and afterwards minister of one of the churches of Ipswich; prosecuted for Puritanism, 1634, and retired to Holland, where he d. about 1640. A collective edition of his Works—sermons and theological treatises—was pub. Lon., 1635, (some 1636, sm. 8vo; with a leaf with two wood-cuts and the following verses:

"Watch, WARD, and keepe thy garments tight,
For I come Thiefe-like at Midnight.
All-seeing, never-slumbring Lord,
Be thou my Watch, Ile be thy WARD."

His best-known production is Woe to Drunkards; a Sermon on Proverbs xxiii. 29, 32, 1622, sm. 8vo. (See Duyckinck's Cyc. of Amer. Lit., i. 18.) This and his Works are both rare. Dr. Doddridge also commends his compositions. See, also, Notes and Queries, Jan. 4, 1868, i., (The Caricatures of Samuel Ward, of Ipswich.)

Ward, Thomas, a schoolmaster, b. at Danby Castle, Yorkshire, 1652, became a Roman Catholic, and resided for some years at Rome; had a commission in the Pope's Guards, and served against the Turks; in the reign of James II. returned to England, and rode in the King's Guards; after the Revolution, retired to Flanders; d. at Saint Germain's, 1708. 1. "Ward's Errata was answered, in all its principal parts, before it was ever composed: since it is professedly extracted from Dr. or Mr. Gregory Martin's Discovery of the Manifold Corruptions of the Holy Scriptures, &c., printed at Rheims in 1582; which was answered, paragraph by paragraph, by Dr. W. Fulke (see FULKE, WM., D.D., No. 6) and others."—Lowndes's Brit. Lib., 105.

"I sing the deeds of great King Harry,
Of Ned his son, and daughter Mary,
Whence England's Common Prayer Book sprung,
What Canticles in kirks are sung."

"The imitation of Hudibras is tolerably successful, and there is a considerable share of humour, wit, and liveliness, but not enough to atone for the many misrepresentations of fact, and the malignant tendencies of the whole."—Chalmers's Biog. Dict., xxxi. 137.

"Full of impious abuse put in a strain apt enough to take with those who are disposed to divert themselves with a show of wit and humour dressed up to make the Reformation appear both odious and ridiculous."—BISHOP BURNET.

"Thomas Ward has heavier sins than those of coarseness and dulness to answer for, his work being written throughout with an utter disregard to truth, and falsifying or concealing facts, just as it suited the purposes of the author. . . . Those readers who can tolerate a work which burlesques martyrdom and makes merry with executions will find it not destitute of humour and ingenuity."—Retrosp. Rev., iii. 328, 329.
